How to Email your Professor

Email: Per JSRCC policy, all faculty must communicate with their students using their college email accounts. Please develop a habit of checking your college accounts often, as I will communicate with you using only your JSRCC email addresses. Your email accounts became active when you were assigned a user name and password. Go to My JSRCC Log-in for access to your email account, Blackboard, etc.

Emailing your instructor: In any given semester I will be instructing between 90 and 150 students and as you can imagine that results in quite a few emails! To help me organize and respond faster, please be sure to include the following information when email me:

- (1) An appropriate salutation ("Dear Professor Watson", etc.)
- (2) Your first and last name
- (3) Your course and section number (example: 111-DL02)
- (4) Specific details on the assignment or subject in question
- (5) A proper closing (Sincerely, Best, Yours, etc.)

*This information will help me respond to you in a more timely and efficient manner, as well as help build basic netiquette skills. Emails not containing this basic information will be deleted with no reply given or credit earned for any attached assignments!

All official communication between students and instructors must take place via your JSR email account. Because of academic privacy laws (FERPA), I cannot answer emails from non-JSR email accounts--please make it a priority to learn to use your JSR email account.

Disclosure to the College and Professors

- Ultimately it is your decision on what, if anything, you want to disclose to the college about your disability
- You can advocate your NEEDS, without stating your disability

The Office of Student Life is dedicated to providing involvement and leadership opportunities outside of the classroom that fosters student learning, growth, wellness, and belonging. We do this by crafting and promoting meaningful experiences and programs, advising student groups and their leaders, operating Student Life Centers and the Reynolds Gym, and collaborating with students and stakeholders to support Reynolds' academic mission.

The Office of Student Life coordinates a variety of free or low-cost activities and events on and off campus. In addition, the office works with the student-led groups, coordinates the Student Leadership Challenge program, hosts the intramurals program, group fitness classes and other recreational activities and maintains the Student Life Centers.
